

Inaugural lecture by Obel Professor Arjan Blokland

Title of inaugural lecture:

“You don’t suppose you can run a railway in accordance with the statutes of the state of New York, do you?” Studying corporate crime through a life-course lens

-

Time and Place:

Thursday, April 2, at 13.00-14.00

AAU, Audit A, Fibigerstræde 15, 9220 Aalborg

Arjan Blokland, Leiden University, is a newly appointed visiting professor at Aalborg University at the Department of Sociology and Social Work. Blokland is a senior-researcher at the Netherlands Institute for the Study of Crime and Law Enforcement, collaborator of the International Centre for Comparative Criminology, associate editor of the Journal of Quantitative Criminology, and has played an active role in establishing both the European Society of Criminology working group on Developmental and Life-course Criminology, as well as the Division of Developmental and Life-course Criminology of the American Society of Criminology. Blokland’s research interests involve the evolution of delinquency and crime across the life span and the desired and collateral effects of interventions aimed to curb criminal development. Blokland has introduced the criminal career and life-course approach to several other research fields, including sex offending research, organized crime research and, most recently, the study of corporate crime. The visiting professorship is financially supported by the Obel Family Foundation

After the inaugural lecture, a reception will take place at the Department of Sociology and Social Work
Kroghstræde 7, "Glasarkaden" 9220 Aalborg East

Please register at this link

